

University of Michigan Udall Center presents Community Research Symposium

Virtual Webinar: Friday, June 24, 1-4 PM EST

This program is for community members interested in learning about the Parkinson disease research being done through the U-M Udall Center.

Keynote by special guest:

Ray Dorsey, MD

Director-University of Rochester
Udall Center for Parkinson's Disease Research

AGENDA

Welcome

Keynote: Ending Parkinson's Disease

Presentation: Acetylcholine and Cognition in Parkinson Disease

Presentation: Attention and Sensory Information Processing During Walking: Why is This Important for People with Parkinson's Disease

Presentation: Striatal Cholinergic Interneurons Mediating Attentional Control in a Rat Model of Parkinsonian Falls

Presentation: Brain Rhythms as Potential Biomarkers in Parkinson's Disease

Moderated Panel Q &A

Adjourn

MODERATOR

Kelvin Chou, MD, FAAN

University of Michigan
Co-Chief, Movement Disorders Division
Professor, Neurology and Neurosurgery
Associate Chair of Faculty Development

SPEAKERS

Roger Albin, MD

University of Michigan
Director, Udall Center
Co-Chief, Movement Disorders Division
Anne B. Young Collegiate Professor of Neurology

Simon David, BSc

Ann Arbor VA Medical Center
Research Physiologist

Aaron Kucinski, PhD

University of Michigan
Assistant Research Scientist

Megha Ghosh, BS, MS

University of Michigan
PhD Candidate-Psychology

We hope you will join us for this informative afternoon.
The event is free, but you must register in order to enter the webinar.
Please register by June 22 using the following link (michmed.org/Bzdjz)

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN HEALTH
MICHIGAN MEDICINE